As the teenage boxer, Kid Mears stepped into the ring, his young girlfriend Fay could scarcely bear to watch. One evening, Fay issued him with an ultimatum, 'Enough. It's the ring or me...'

Jack Solomons discarded his gloves, his nickname & chose Fay, returning to his day job hawking fish from a stall in Petticoat Lane market. Jack & Fay were swiftly married & remained together until her death 25 years later.

Jack's brain was too good to be exposed to brutality of life in the boxing ring. When he realised that the real money & the longer career was in promoting bouts, he left his day job for his ultimate calling. Jack Solomons went on to become one the greatest boxing promoters in history.

Jack began representing young, up & coming boxers not handled by the establishment. Jack Solomons Gym was originally based in the Devonshire Sporting Club, off Mare Street in Hackney. However, after it was bombed in 1940, Jack found a new home for his boxing gym on Great Windmill Street.

In 1945 Jack hit the big time, promoting Jack London vs Bruce Woodcock in the British heavyweight title fight at White Hart Lane. Following this success, he started to take on the big British fighters of the time, Freddie Mills & Randolph Turpin. Jack promoted the sensational bout in 1951 when Sugar Ray Robinson lost his middleweight title to Turpin. Another career highlight was bringing Cassius Clay (Muhammed Ali) to England to fight Henry Cooper. He beat him over five rounds with a technical knockout.

Jack Solomons promoted 26 world title fights & worked almost up until his death in 1979. His invitation to appear on Desert Island Discs in 1957 shows what a huge role boxing played in British life at the time. Amongst Jack's chosen songs were Petula Clark (Take Care of Yourself) & Johann Strauss II (Perpetual Motion) & East End favourites Flanagan and Allen (Down Every Street).

His luxury item, rather fittingly, was a punch bag.

Jack Solomons OBE (10 December 1900 - 09 December 1979)
